STAT

SUBJECT: House Floor Action on H.R. 1212 - Polygraph Bill

1. We have been advised that House floor action has been scheduled for Tuesday, 4 November 1987, on H.R. 1212, the "Employee Polygraph Protection Act", the bill which, as you know, virtually bans private use of the polygraph.

2. Given the large number of cosponsors and the passage of the bill last year, passage this year appears almost certain. Depending upon how the House leadership decides to structure the vote, there may be an opportunity for members to vote on part or all of H.R. 1536, an alternative version of the bill which would allow for the use of polygraphs subject to State licensure and control. Passage of that alternative, however, is not expected. In fact, it appears the only real controversy will be over the existence and scope of private sector exemptions, including those for the pharmaceutical, banking, jewelry, and hotel/motel industries, and child care providers.

3. As you will recall, H.R. 1212 addresses Agency concerns: Subsection (a) of Section 6 exempts the United States Government from coverage under the bill, and subsection (b) similarly exempts employees of Agency contractors. These exemptions are virtually identical to those in last year's bill and there is no indication they will not be in H.R. 1212, as finally passed by the House. The Federal Bureau of Investigation, the National Security Agency and the Department of Defense enjoy similar exemptions.

4. As you know, the Department of Justice testified against H.R. 1212 last spring. We understand, however, that the Department of Labor does not oppose the bill as strongly as does Justice. Therefore, the final administration on the bill at this point is not clear.

5. There has been no action in the Senate on similar legislation. We will continue to monitor the situation and keep you informed.
